Christopher Jentzen

Independent Game Developer
Greater Sacramento

Summary

While attending college full time full time, I helped to found and served as President of the Tabletop Activities and Gaming club at Sacramento State. In this position I helped the club to grow from 5 regular members to over 30 regular members in the span of one year. I also managed club funds and equipment of over $500. I graduated in May of 2018.

I am currently working towards a certificate in game design through Bluegrass Community and Technical College, and will be attending the upcoming Agile for Patriots session starting April, 2022.

Experience

Mythos Card Game

Lead Game Designer

January 2016 - Present (6 years 4 months)

Sacramento, California, United States

Mythos is designed to be an asymmetrical action-economy-based card game where one player takes on the role of an investigator, and the other takes on that of an evil cult. The game is designed to be responsive to player feedback and incorporate faction outcomes created by players into future story sets.

COMIC Roleplaying System

Lead Game Designer

January 2014 - Present (8 years 4 months)

Sacramento, California, United States

Creator and sole designer for COMIC Roleplaying Game System. As the creator, I have spent over one thousand hours designing a unique superhero-based roleplaying system. I have extensively tested and refined the game over several iterations using player feedback and statistical analysis to create a game that gives both players and game masters a wide degree of stability and flexibility to create the original characters gamers want in their worlds.
